Bridj is the mass transit system for the 21st and 22nd century city. We use billions of data points to understand how a city moves, then we create demand driven mass transportation networks to move users within the city 8-10x more effectively than any other option on a price vs. time continuum.